

The Social History Curators Group is a subject specialist network that aims to transform social history in museums. We provide support, training, CPD opportunities and networking for anyone working with, or interested in, social history collections.

What do we offer?

- ◆ Conference: an annual conference exploring a current theme through papers, case studies, visits and workshops, with friendly and sociable networking.
- ◆ Seminars: affordable seminars to learn specific skills and knowledge to help you in your work.
- ◆ Journal: Social History in Museums, peer-reviewed, with papers on current research and new projects.
- ◆ Newsletter: SHCG News, with short articles, reviews and training opportunities.
- ◆ Email list: where SHCG members ask, answer and debate any question you can think of.
- ◆ firstBASE: an online database of resources for anyone interested in social history collections.
- ◆ Advocacy: campaigning for the issues that are important to our members at a regional or national level.

You don't have to be a curator or an established professional to join - we're open to anyone who works with social history! Membership options start at just £8.
